

Just one lawsuit can leave companies wishing they had a preventative legal strategy.

Minimizing risk with a thorough audit

If you haven't spent time working with an attorney, or your company has changed since your last consultation, you might have pressing legal questions. Or, perhaps you think your company's doing everything right, but you just want to be sure. The Attenza Law Business Assessment can help. We begin by reviewing your legal documents. Next we sit down with you for an intensive interview about you and your business. Then we determine what steps your company can take to minimize risk and deliver written recommendations, which might include:

- Writing an employee manual
- Forming a business entity and drafting corporate documents
- Protecting your logo by filing for trademark registration
- Negotiating better contract terms
- Creating a risk management program for product liability
- Connecting with other key professionals

Customizing our audit to meet your company's needs

While we've created the Business Assessment based on our experience working with businesses – from start-ups to well-established companies – we realize every situation is unique. So we never view a Business Assessment as a one-size-fits-all approach. The results of our customized audit will help us determine existing problems as well as opportunities to prevent future legal complications. And, because we realize every business needs to consider the bottom line, we prioritize our results. So you know what steps should be taken immediately and which ones can be put off a bit, if necessary.

Curious how a Business Assessment could help your company?

Give us a call at Attenza Law. We'd love to hear more about what you've built – and what you hope to grow in the future.

One fixed rate. Three smart steps.

1. Thoroughly review legal documents, such as your employee manual, contracts, and corporate documents.
2. Interview you and key staff using our extensive audit document.
3. Provide written no-obligation recommendations (ranked 1-5 on a scale of urgency) designed to help your company minimize risk.
